Through Meridian and SeriousOps, we support businesses and public-sector partners with workflow systems, remote team coordination, operational dashboards, and implementation support. We are also exploring infrastructure and public-safety applications, including a long-endurance drone concept capable of approximately five hours of flight time for inspection, monitoring, emergency response, and hard-to-reach field operations. In addition, we are developing interest around road-safety technology, including speed-camera and monitoring solutions that can support safer streets, better compliance, and data-informed transportation planning. Our goal is to combine technology with practical operations: not just creating tools, but helping organizations understand where the tools fit, how they are deployed, and how they improve day-to-day performance. |
